

Idiom of the week

GET (ONE'S) DUCKS IN A ROW

to get one's affairs in order or organized;
to get fully prepared & organize things well

The manager has given his employees a few days to get their ducks in a row. If they don't get organized and improve their performance, he'll fire them.